

Putting Your Best Foot Forward

Until the 1960s, teaching good manners was considered part of a child's upbringing. Public and private schools included etiquette as part of a well-rounded curriculum, and charm schools specialized in teaching the social graces, poise, and table manners.

The liberated '60s and '70s brought about a decline in the popularity of etiquette programs; however, a renewed interest in the '80's, the return to traditional values in the '90s, and now the turn of the century's focus on self worth and integrity call for the restoration of graceful appearance and polished manners.

This being the case, allow me to instruct your child in the areas of poise, posture, and presentation. Putting Your Best Foot Forward is a six-hour seminar that provides the essentials for dress, carriage, speaking, and dining with ease and charm. With this education, your child conveys a refreshing sophistication and polish that sets him/her apart from the norm. Included is a multi-course dining tutorial guaranteed to heighten your child's dining skills, not only at restaurants but also at home. You will see a difference.
